The Index Guard Strategy

Potential for higher performance with a level of protection from smaller index losses.

The Index Guard Strategy may be a good choice if you are looking for a level of protection from more severe index losses, while maintaining the potential for growth opportunities. See how it works with four possible outcomes:

If the annual index return is positive, you’ll receive an annual performance credit equal to that return, up to a limit called the cap. This gives you the potential for growth opportunities.

Current caps may be different from what is represented in the examples. You may not be able to participate fully in a market recovery due to the capped upside potential in subsequent terms.

If the annual index return is negative, you may receive an annual negative performance credit – but it will never be less than a specified percentage called the floor. This helps provide a level of protection by limiting any negative index returns to -10%.

Possible Outcome 1: If the annual index return is positive, but less than the declared cap, the annual performance credit would be equal to the index return.

Possible Outcome 2: If the annual index return exceeds the declared cap, a performance credit equal to the cap would be applied.

Possible Outcome 3: If the annual index return is negative, but within the -10% floor, there would be a negative performance credit equal to the index return.

Possible Outcome 4: If the annual index return is negative and below the -10% floor, the negative performance credit would be limited to the -10% floor.

Negative index returns beyond the -10% floor will not reduce your contract value.
